Silbert Kelly Positively Identified in Murder Case

Several Witnesses Testify to Seeing Him With Money Bag and Revolver.

ACTORS EXAMINE YOUTH

Surprise Sprung by Commonwealth in Calling to Stand Persons Not Heretofore Mentioned in Case; Conclude Prosecution Testimony During Day.

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—Presentation of evidence by the state in the trial of Gilbert W. Kelly for complicity in the murder of James H. Neal a department store messenger, who was killed last June of a large sum of money may be completed today it was stated when court opened this morning.

Constitution C. M. Stone, father of the boy who was appointed temporary chairman of the organization at a meeting last week will preside. It is virtually in effect in seeing some sort of movement engineered which will result in the future prosperity of the city and he is especially anxious that a large crowd of representatives will be present at the meeting.

There will be 10 meetings a day of these meetings the count being 10 days and I want to see every citizen who believes Constitution is a good city and he wants to see it surrounded with greater prosperity present.

Many good ideas were presented at the first meeting last week called primarily to discuss the eight questions. The present organization grew out of the gathering and the sentiment in the city seems to be for further its usefulness.

The women are interested as well as the men and it is likely some of them will be included in the membership. The women are anxious to aid as they can but admit they would be of little value until they have learned the processes of such organizations and have familiarized themselves with the needs of the city and the means of securing them.

The present organization will endeavor to do as much work of a character of Commonwealth as is possible. There are no membership dues and those willing to assist will go so with the work of putting the city forward on the industrial map.

The chairman says, it is his desire to have cooperation of the 800 members of the organization. Past failures have been recorded because of lack of sufficient work together. As the present association is founded on a mutual desire to enlarge Connellsdale it is more likely to exist is the belief of those working hard for the success of the enterprise.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 o'clock sharp. It is announced

LODGE DECLARES PACIFIC TREATY MUST NOT FAIL

Such Event Would Doom World to Future Wars, He Says.

"ONLY AN EXPERIMENT" NEW FIELD LARGER ONE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Continuation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance and substitution of a political system situated by peace in the Pacific was mentioned in the Senate today by Senator Lodge, Repub., leader and a member of the American Arm delegation in the main purpose of the Four Power Pacific Pact.

The Anglo-Japanese arrangement, he declared, was regarded by the delegation as the most dangerous element in the government's relations with the Far East. He asserted that it is the power of the church in honor of Dr. H. N. Cannon, superintendent of the McKeepsport District of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. H. A. Baum to LEAVE DAWSON M. E. CHURCH APRIL 1

Is Named by Bishop McConnell as Pastor at Beaver Falls.

Rev. H. A. Baum, pastor of the Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church at Dawson, for the past 10 years, announced his appointment as pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Beaver Falls, at a dinner of the congregation in honor of Dr. H. N. Cannon, superintendent of the McKeepsport District of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. Baum succeeds the late Rev. H. A. Baum, pastor of Beaver Falls and will assume his new charge about April 1.

Rev. Baum is one of the best known ministers of the Pittsburgh Conference with which he has been affiliated for the past 10 years. Previous to his appointment to the Dawson church, he was pastor of the 11th Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, during his long pastorate at Dawson the church has made rapid strides and is in a flourishing condition. The membership has increased from 250 to 500 and the different organizations in connection with the church have met with great success.

Rev. Baum and family have made a number of friends at Dawson and community and their leaving will be deeply regretted.

The Beaver Falls church has a membership of 900 and while Rev. Baum's new charge is not a bit more numerous, it will have a larger audience in the city, as it will have a population of 20,000.

It is also expected that the church will be a great success.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, MAR. 8, 1922.

CONSTABLES AND THEIR DUTIES.

The pointed reminder the court gave the constables with respect to their duty to become cognizant of and to report infractions of the law, particularly those involving illicit traffic in liquor, in their bailiwicks, ought to have a stimulating effect on this group of peace officers. Inasmuch as the admonition carried with it the very plain intimation that action by the court will follow inaction by the constables, it should serve to stir these officers to greater vigilance and fidelity, even if they have not already felt the urge in that direction from a sense of duty and obligation under their oaths of office.

To the court and citizens who are familiar with such matters the stereotyped return of constables which declare they have no knowledge of violations of the law in their bailiwicks, has become almost a joke if it were not, in effect and in fact, a lamentable commentary on the inefficiency of these officers. That this condition has prevailed almost from time immemorial, and has been permitted by the court to continue, has created in the public mind the impression that constables as a class have been either inexcusably indifferent or wilfully negligent in the discharge of their duties.

In some instances the circumstances have been such as to give rise to the suspicion that it has been to the interests of the individual officers to remain in apparent ignorance of law-breaking within the districts where they are presumed to keep a watchful eye upon all offenders against the law. To a certain extent, as in all other cases where disobedience and disrespect of the law has become the rule rather than the exception, public sentiment has had much to do with the laxness of officers. But in a still larger number of cases men who are elected constables are in every way unfitted for that office. To their general inefficiency as plain citizens some of them add to their disqualifications as officers that of dishonesty in both motive and conduct. Instances have been known where constables, working in conjunction with justices, have fleeced foreigners through extortions or multiplied costs and otherwise made these unfortunate to yield a revenue, instead of striving as officers of probity and good character to see that justice is dealt with all with fairness and impartiality to the bumblist or the most ignorant.

In practically every section of the county the illicit traffic in liquor has been carried on with so noticeable an absence of effort to make informations or apprehend offenders, that it is commonly alleged some constables are virtually, if not actually, in league with the bootleggers to promote distribution and sale instead of being vigilant and active to prevent both.

This state of affairs has doubtless lead the court to admonish constables that they must acquaint themselves with the situation in their bailiwicks and function as real live officers. Fulling in this something more than a sharp rebuke from the bench when filing their next quarterly returns may be expected to follow.

It therefore behoves the constables of the county to cease trying to fool the court and the public concerning the degree of orderly observance of the law in the communities under their official purview. It will be even more helpful in the interests of law enforcement for the voters, to give somewhat more serious consideration to the kind of men heretofore to be elected to the office of constable, particularly in those communities where it is a matter of common knowledge that the present incumbents are failing to measure up to the requirements.

WHY THE HARMONIZERS ARE GLOOMY.

While the promoters of the New Freedom Disarmament Conference, which did not disarm as completely as was fondly hoped and fervently prayed would be done, are making the pretense of being highly gratified over the result of the first meeting of the 72 "handpickers" who selected Grange Master McSparran as the candidate for governor, they are making a bold front to conceal their chagrin at the manner in which the female contingent among the "handpickers" put things across at this meeting.

The manipulators of the whole scheme had not intended that McSparran should be the "spontaneous choice of a united Democracy," as represented by the 72 hand-picked "handpickers," but the women took things in hand at Harrisburg last week and determined that because McSparran is a kindly widower he would also make "a nice governor." Accordingly they refused to be dictated to by the New Freedom chieftains and decided that McSparran should be made the gubernatorial standard-bearer.

This choice so upset the plans of the New Freedom leaders that after emergency action was taken to adjourn the conference without completing the ticket, the only commander Chairman Sterling could muster the courage to make was to say he "hoped there would be harmony." That this happy state is at best a very vague hope can be judged from the view of the situation presented by the political writer of the Philadelphia Ledger. In advertising to the fact that Judge Samuel E. Shull is the admitted choice of the Old Guard faction for governor and has been so designated by Judge Bonnwell without so much as "by your leave," to the New Freedom chieftains, the Ledger writer says:

"Judge Shull, who appeared the most likely candidate until the women took control of affairs at Harrisburg Thursday, and who was one of the warmest advocates of harmony preceding the selection of Mr. McSparran, is now laying the groundwork for a scrap, which may split the party, despite all efforts to promote peace."

"Judge Shull and some of the big men of the Democratic organization look upon the selection of Mr. McSparran as the outcome of a fluke and, although they are deeply chagrined by the victory of the women in putting over a man whom the male leaders scarcely ever had considered for the place, they do not know exactly what to do about it if anything resembling harmony for the primary contest is to be preserved. The leaders find themselves unable to assume the position of party wranglers by buckling up Shull to his determination to enter the primary, and yet they are not enthusiastic about the McSparran candidacy. They admit he undoubtedly can make a strong appeal and a good fight, but they resent the manner in which the women took the initiative of party affairs out of their hands and put over a candidate who had not previously received their blessing."

In view of the unexpected and annoying fiasco which resulted in placing at the head of the "harmony" ticket a candidate whom the New Freedomen did not want, and who is even less acceptable to the Old Guard, the hopes of the harmonizers have become enshrouded in an impenetrable gloom. Incidentally, much less praise is being bestowed upon the women of the party who had been so loudly proclaimed as "the great leaders and purifying force in politics of the Keystone State."

The salute to Comrade James G. Hicks, who has attained his 82nd birthday, will not be confined to those who have first right to so address him. Every resident is glad to do him honor and wish him many happy returns of the day.

The greater the effort to produce a makeshift bonus bill the more bone is here being employed in the process.

To the coke region the blowing in of an additional blast furnace stack is even a more cheerful sign of the changing seasons than a whole flock of robins.

Bank Loan Provision is Substituted

The adjusted service credit of the veteran. This credit would be figured on the basis of $1.25 for each day of overseas service and $1 for each day or home service, but in no event could the credit exceed $500. In the case of a veteran who performed no overseas service and $625 in the case of a veteran who served overseas.

Loan on Certificates.

Prior to September 30, 1925 any national bank, or any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of any state, territory, possession, or the District of Columbia, would be authorized to loan to a veteran on the certificate any amount not in excess of 50 per cent of the adjusted service credit plus interest at 4½ per cent from October 1, 1922.

The loan would have to mature not later than September 30, 1925, and the rate of interest charged by the bank could not exceed by more than two per cent a year the rate charged at the date of the loan for the discount of 90-day commercial paper by the Federal Reserve Bank in the Federal Reserve District in which is located the bank making the advance to the veterans.

Return to Treasury.

If a veteran defaulted in the payment of principal and interest to the bank for six months after maturity of the loan the bank would be required to present the veteran's note and certify to the Treasury not earlier than May 30, 1925, and not later than October 30, 1925, and the government would cash the certificate. The bank would be paid the principal and interest up to the date of payment by the government, and the veteran, if living, or, if dead, his beneficiary or his estate, would be paid the difference between the amount paid the bank and 80 per cent of the loan value of the certificate at the time of its receipt by the Treasury.

After September 30, 1925, the government would make loans directly to veterans on the certificates. From that date to October 1, 1928, the maximum of such a loan would be 85 per cent of the sum of the adjusted service credit of the veteran plus interest from October 1, 1922, at 4½ per cent, compounded annually. If the loan were made after October 1, 1928, the loan value would be 70 per cent of the adjusted service credit increased by 25 per cent and interest thereon from October 1, 1922, to the date of the loan, at 4½ per cent compounded annually.

Repayment of Advances.

Advances by the government could be repaid by means of a fixed number of annual installments sufficient to cover (1) interest on the unpaid principal at the rate of 4½ per cent, and (2) such amount of the principal as would extinguish the debt within an agreed period not exceeding the life of the certificate.

Should a veteran default in any payment for a period of one year the certificate would be declared forfeited. Had he borrowed an amount less than the maximum authorized by the bill, he would be paid 80 per cent of the difference between the maximum and the amount actually borrowed. In the case of the death of the veteran before the loan was paid, his beneficiary or his estate would be paid the face value of the certificate, less the amount due on the loan.

Receive Applications.

Application for government loans might be made at any postoffice of a first, second or third class, but loans would have to be approved by the secretary of the treasury.

It would be provided that no certificate issued or right conferred under the adjusted service certificate title could, except for the purpose of securing a loan from an authorized bank or from the government, be negotiable or assessable or serve as security for any loan.

"Any negotiation, assignment or loan made in violation of any provision of this section shall be held void," said the bill.

If the veteran should die after making application for any one of the optional plans, or for the cash, and before the coming into force of the bill on October 1, 1922, the government would pay to his estate the amount of the adjusted service credit.

Vocational Training.

Veterans electing to take the vocational training aid option would be paid $1.75 for each day of attendance on or after January 1, 1923, on a course of vocational training previously approved by the director of the Veterans' Bureau. The total payment under this plan could not exceed 140 per cent of the amount of the adjusted service credit.

HOW TWO WOMEN ESCAPED OPERATIONS

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides swelled and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs, and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had had one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I feel it was helping me, and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me." —Mrs. MARY MARK, 37 Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N. Y.
